MSU Econ Bureau Publishes Annual on State Production

"Montana's Production," a 20-year summary of the state's output from mines, farms, and forests has been recently published by the University bureau of business and economic research. The 78-year annual yearbook, compiled and edited by Dr. Roy J. W. Ely, chairman of the department of economics, also contains extensive data on financial and trading activities, income, labor, manufacture, and transportation.

Montana's production in the primary industries—agriculture, mining, and lumbering—for 1948, was 38 per cent above the 1935-39 index; the physical index of agricultural production in 1948 stood at 165 compared with 100 for the same 1935-39 period, the statistical yearbook revealed.

"It is interesting to note that whereas net salaries and wages accounted for nearly 64 per cent of the state's income in 1929, they amounted to only a little more than 47 per cent in 1948 and 57 per cent in 1949," the editor said.

"On the other hand," he said, "the proprietors, including farmers, proportion of the income advanced from 24.3 per cent in 1929 to 41 per cent in 1948, but dropped to 28 per cent in 1949."

Montana ranked fifth in per capita income in the country in 1948 and eighteenth in 1949. Per capita income is estimated to have reached $1,696 in 1948, or $1,400 above the 1933 income of $290 per capita.

Monthly average employment of non-agricultural workers reached a new high of 146,200 in 1949, a gain of 30 per cent over 1939.

Retail sales in the state climbed from the 100 base index in the 1935-39 period to 270 in 1948 and 266.7 in 1949.

Property taxes advanced from $40,698,000 in 1948 to $45,222,000 in 1949, an increase of over 11 per cent in one year. State income taxes took $4,125,325 and Federal income taxes $68,458,575 from the incomes of Montana taxpayers in 1949. Ten years earlier, both state and federal income taxes amounted to only slightly more than $3,000,000.

Automobile and truck registrations continue to climb and reached a total of 240,467 in 1949, more than double the number in 1933. Current registrations average one automobile or truck for every two and one-half persons in the state.

Tourists left over $65,000,000 in Montana in 1949, the largest returns ever received from this source, the Montana Highway department claimed in the statistical summary.

Copies of the book have been mailed to individuals and concerns throughout the state. Persons not on the research bureau's mailing list may obtain copies upon request to the bureau office, Dr. Harold J. Hoflich, director of the bureau of business and economic research, said.

Ex-ROTC Students Are On Active Duty

Three men who received second lieutenant commissions in the reserves last spring under the advanced air force ROTC program in this school are now serving on active duty, according to Capt. I. A. Goldner, assistant professor of military science and tactics.

Ben Fauth, Glasgow; Bob Leamer, San Diego, Calif.; and Don McGregor, Bollinger, Texas, applied for and received a tour of duty with the air force.

Fauth is taking pilot training at Goodfellow air force base, San Angelo, Texas. Leamer is studying officer's communication at Scott air force base in Illinois, and McGregor is a supply school student at Lowry field in Denver, Colo.

Diettert Elected Vice-President Of Science Group

Dr. Reuben A. Diettert, professor of botany, was elected vice-president of the Northwest Scientific association at its twenty-fourth annual meeting held in Spokane the last of December.

Dr. Diettert has been on the MSU staff since he was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1937. He has received national recognition for his studies of western plants. In 1938, his study on the characteristics of sagebrush was published, covering a complete analysis of this plant from Canada to Mexico.

For two years Dr. Diettert has been a member of the board of trustees for the 400-member association, having a year left to serve. By custom, he is automatically in line for the president's chair next year.

Dr. Diettert has served as chairman of the botany-zoology section, and has been on the editorial board of the Northwest Science Quarterly for several years. Since 1938, he has been listed in American Men of Science.

He hopes to have an article on the development of the ponderosa pine needle ready for publication this year.

Sinclair Lewis Dies In Italy

Rome, Jan. 10.—(U)—The first American to win the Nobel prize for literature died today in a hospital at Rome.

Sinclair Lewis was 65 years old. He entered the hospital last December suffering from pneumonia. He appeared to be getting better and then, today, he had a heart attack.

Lewis was the author of numerous novels. But he gained a place of greatness in American literature with his portrayal of the American middle class.

Vets May Escape Draft If Younger Men Called

BY UNITED PRESS

The military has put its accent on youth for the armed forces, but says it'll settle for the older men if it has to.

Defense Secretary George Marshall outlined a double-barrelled military program to the senate armed forces committee, a draft of 18-year-old men, yesterday.

Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg filled in the details and pointed up the problem. Mrs. Rosenberg said that if the military can't get the teen-agers, then the services will have to draft fathers and married men in the present 19-through-25-year age group. And that the top draft age will have to be raised to 27 years to boost the armed forces to more than three million men.

For the 18-year-olds, the Defense department proposes 27 months of service, with four months of it in immediate military training, and the other 23 months of duty depending on the duration of the emergency.

It boiled down to a "work-or-fight" proposition for the youngsters. The 18-year-olds who didn't meet the military's physical standards would be placed on "work assignments," and only a small proportion of the young men would be excused completely. After the four-months training, some of the 18-year-olds would be

Winter Rushing Closes; Twenty-One Women Pledge

Twenty-one women became sorority pledges yesterday afternoon as they made their choice before the lawyer in the Student Union, ending the winter quarter rushing.

Doherty Now Vice-Chairman

Cathy Doherty, Missoula, was elected vice-chairman in charge of publications and Jeanne Couture, Arlee, treasurer, at the Northwest Province convention of the Newman Club Federation in Pullman, Wash., last month, Father Fenlon, MSU Newman club chaplain, said yesterday.

Father Fenlon, former province chaplain, delivered the opening address. Catherine Sweeney, Belt, former province treasurer, reported on province finances and on her Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome, where she, among other Newman clubbers, had an audience with Pope Pius XII, last summer.

The convention, under the auspices of Washington State college and the University of Idaho, had as its theme "The Development of Spiritual Life on the Secular Campus."

At the various panels delegates from the Universities of British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Idaho; the State Colleges of Oregon, Montana, Washington; the Central Washington, Northern Montana, Northern Idaho College of Education; Clark Junior college and MSU exchanged ideas on purposes and methods of Newman club.

MSU delegates were Floyd Agostinelli, Anaconda; Larry Kadlec, Missoula; Mary Joan Tascher, Missoula, former province recording secretary; the Misses Sweeney, Couture, and Doherty, and Father Fenlon.

TWENTY-FIVE BUCKS PAID WHEN LITTLE BOY PLAYED

Detroit, Jan. 10.—(U)—A four-year-old Detroit boy decided to do a little gambling today.

The lad, Donald Bathy, toddled over to a drugstore counter while his mother was making some purchases. He found a punchboard and began jabbing away at it.

The boy knocked out four punches and the druggist told Donald's mother it would cost her four dollars.

But instead of paying, she called police. The druggist was fined $25 for operating a lottery.

North Koreans Hit Past Wonju Front

Korea, Jan. 10.—(U)—Communist troops who drove the Allies back from Wonju began a pre-dawn attack Thursday morning, Korea time. And the U.N. forces are braced for an all-out assault. In the fighting Wednesday, 10,000 North Koreans drove American, French, and Dutch troops back three to five miles from the gates of Wonju. Then, at 5 a.m. Thursday morning, the enemy hit the Dutch contingent with heavy mortar and small arms fire.

The new commander of the American second infantry division, Maj. Gen. Robert McClure, said, "This may be it." A successful Communist plunge through central Korea would once again threaten the Eighth army which is moving back southeastward toward the old Pusan beachhead.

Registration Figs Show 266 Drop

Total student registration for winter quarter is 2,601, according to figures released yesterday by Registrar Leo Smith. This includes 1,908 men and 693 women.

Last year at the end of the first week of winter quarter 2462 men and 764 women had registered. The drop in comparison of men to women shows where there were three and one-half men per woman last winter, there is only a little under three men per woman this winter quarter.

The drop from autumn quarter is 266 students, while the registration for winter quarter 1950 was 3,226. The current total is slightly higher than pre-school estimates of 2,500 to 2,550, Smith said.

The reason for the larger-than-normal decrease because of draft, enlistments, and recall of student reservists to active duty was shown in that 90 per cent of the 266 dropping were men.

Is There Need For a Change?

During the closing days of fall quarter the Kaimin carried a few remarks on the proposal, now before the faculty, to cancel graduating seniors' exemptions from final exams. As yet no definite action has been taken on this matter, but it is scheduled to come up again at the next faculty meeting.

We had a number of reservations as to the wisdom of this proposal and so far nothing has happened to change our opinion.

Although the change certainly would not be a catastrophic blow to the students concerned, there still does not seem to be any crying need to institute a program under which a portion of the university seniors would be required to go through exam week at the conclusion of graduation quarter while the rest of the class would be exempt.

We grant that the short time lapse between the end of spring quarter and commencement makes final senior exams impossible for spring graduates, while the same difficulty does not affect fall and winter graduates. Yet if the administration finds that no great harm results in turning out as finished products spring graduates without final examinations it would appear that it would be no disaster to continue applying the same program to graduates of other quarters.

At the December 6 meeting, when the change was proposed to the faculty, a substitute motion was also presented. This motion provided that "any student who completes requirements for graduation at the end of autumn, winter, spring, or summer quarter may be excused from taking final examinations in those courses in which he has a C average or better grade."

This would leave the senior exam situation exactly where it stands now and will be considered, with the proposed change, at the next faculty meeting.

We hope that the faculty will consider seriously both proposals as well as whether or not there is any necessity for a change in the existing arrangement before making a decision in this matter.—DG.

JARDINE CAMPAIGNS FOR FUNCTIONALISM

Dear Editor:

In a world which emphasizes functional utility, the campus oval is a manifest anachronism.

I suggest it be gravelled and used as a parking lot for freshmen.

The Frosh Speak . . .

Freshmen Urged to Enter More Campus Activities

BY DAVE LEUTHOLD AND TOM LINDEMAN

Another quarter of school, the second for freshmen, has just started. With it comes the chance to make better grades than last quarter. And another chance comes again now—the chance to get into extra-curricular activities. In talking to some of the faculty members around the campus, it was learned that they are almost unanimous in urging students to get into activities.

Dean Wunderlich, when questioned on this subject, said that leadership and other qualities of tomorrow's leaders of this country are developed in those activities which they enter voluntarily. "You are here for two reasons: to get knowledge and have the opportunity to use it," he said.

Same for Union

Miss Cyrille Van Duser applied the same idea to the Student Union activities which she manages. She stated, "The Student Union is the laboratory for the ideas learned in classes." And she went on to say that it's one of the major reasons we are here, to give these ideas a trial, and to prepare for the business world and life ahead.

Do employers agree with this attitude? An interview with Mrs. E. W. Reardon, of the campus Placement bureau, showed they very definitely do. All of the employers consider extra-curricular activities very high. The person they want for their business is the one with a well-rounded personality, who will be a credit to the organization he or she works for. "Can he or she get along with people?" is often the first thing they ask about.

Work Counts

Of course, grades should be kept at a C average, and those who work will not have time for any other activities (work does count as an activity on your record). But there are still many freshmen who can keep their grades up, who don't work, and who are not active in extra-curricular work.

There is a long list of activities in which freshmen can participate. Look in your "M Book," or the new "Grizzly Guide." There are clubs for various majors, service clubs, publications, dramatic presentations, student government committees, living group functions, and many more things that are worthy of your time.

Doctors Say Carolyn Can Keep Eyes, Life

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 10.—(P)—The doctors of the famous Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., came out with news tonight that most of the country had been hoping and praying for—4-year-old Carolyn Joan Purcell can have both her eyes and her life.

The Mayo doctors announced that the eyes of the tiny girl from Alpharetta, Ga., won't have to be removed to save her life. They said she does not have cancer of the eyes as doctors in Atlanta had feared.

A clinic report says Southern specialists had made two diagnoses—one that she had cancer of the eyes, and the other that she had an "inflammatory reaction."

An eye specialist who examined her at Rochester today found that her condition was not cancer, but an inflammatory one which would not require surgery, and which would not lead to death.

There are enough so that you can take your choice of the activity which interests you most.

A very necessary part of college life is the fact that we are now considered adult enough to make our own decisions. We cannot be shoved into these things. The choice is ours.

You can find time for these things, if you think they are valuable and you can see the benefit to yourself. There is the chance to develop leadership, cooperation, and to learn how to get along with people. There's always the fact that employers consider such activities important.

Remember that the course is yours, to try or discard. Weigh the facts, and make your decision.

Board to Consider Debate Funds

Central board meets in special session at 4 p.m. today to consider reopening the debate funds question. The debate and oratory allotment was slashed from 3 per cent of ASMSU budget to 2.4 per cent last spring, although the debaters had just finished one of their most successful seasons.

The MSU team placed fifth in the nation at the West Point tournament last year, and ranked first in the northwest.

FATHER OF QUADRUPLETS EXCLAIMS, 'BOY, OH BOY!'

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 10.—(P)—Kenneth Rosenbush of Oakwood, Mich., acted like four proud poppas put together today, even though he knew what was going to happen all along.

X-rays had revealed that his wife would give birth to quadruplets. But when it actually happened today, the proud father could hardly contain himself.

"Boy, oh boy," was his first comment.

The 34-year-old mother and the two boys and two girls are reported "doing fine." And now Rosebush's worry is where he's going to put the new additions to his family. The couple already have four other children. Rosenbush says "We have eight rooms and we're going to need them all."

Old University Dwelling Offers Unique History

BY BOB FADER

Any resemblance between Marcus Cook hall and an army barracks is intentional.

In fact, Tom Swearingen almost got shot because of this.

During the closing days of World War I, the army built what is now Cook hall to house troops who were in training at the University. The war was over before the building was completed, and it became university property. The building was assigned to the ROTC.

One of the first pictures of Cook hall—taken for the 1920 Sentinel—shows the eight army men who were the ROTC instructional staff. Capt. A. C. Cron, Infantry U.S.A., was commanding officer and he was assisted by Sgt. A. Brown.

A rifle range was installed in the lower north wing. One day Swearingen was walking between the Men's gym and University hall during rifle practice and almost got shot as the high-powered .30-06 bullets flew out the rear wall. That put an end to the rifle range.

In 1920, Cron received his gold, maple-leaf promotion and ROTC training became quite the thing on the campus. The unit consisted of three companies and a military band. Military students in the two years of advanced work were awarded a government scholarship amounting to about one hundred and twenty-five dollars a year.

The Shack

The journalism school had outgrown its third home since its inception in 1914. Beginning with a few small tents for its class rooms, the school later moved into the building which affectionately became known as the "shack." In the autumn of 1920, MSU scribes housed themselves in Cook hall.

Dean A. L. Stone was head of the school. He was assisted by Instructor A. A. Applegate, now dean of the journalism school at Michigan State college.

No textbooks were bought by the journalism student for he studied 25 selected newspapers. As the years went by, the school gained a press room and several of today's professors can remember the rumble and the roar that used to come from the building during a press run.

Some of the present-day faculty members who can remember the twice-weekly Kaimin that came from Cook hall are, according to their 1920 titles, G. D. Shallenberger, professor of physics; Richard H. Jesse, dean of men and head of the chemistry department; Tom Spaulding, dean of the forestry school; C. W. Leaphart, dean of the law school; H. G. Merriam, chairman of the English department; Helen Gleason, professor of home economics; J. E. "Burly" Miller, professor of history; and E. A. Atkinson, Grizzly band leader and assistant professor of psychology.

By 1928, the new "shack," or Cook hall, had the atmosphere of an enterprising newspaper office. The Kaimin had become an eight-column sheet instead of its former seven. The "morgue" or dead news room was being converted into a journalism library.

Donations

A big anniversary among the J-students of Cook hall took place Feb. 20, 1932, when the Kaimin celebrated its first year of printing on completely new mechanical equipment donated by O. S. Warden of the Great Falls Tribune; Anaconda Copper Mining company; J. D. Scanlon of the Miles City Star; W. A. Sigorney of the Western Newspaper union, Billings; W. O. Ensign, Deer Lodge; and the Mergenthaler Linotype company, besides other Montana publishers who contributed materials and services.

Cook hall remained the "shack" and the J-school until 1937 when a new building was built.

Today Cook hall is a "shack" in the lower case sense because it serves as a university catch-all. The band practices and stores instruments there, Lawrence Toner maintains the chief custodian office, offices for the music school are cramed into the cubbyholes, and a sign shop leaves colored scars on the floor.

"Boy, they sure send that ball back down th' court in a hurry, huh?"

MSU Rifle Team Downs Wyoming; Graham High Man

Pat Graham, Colville, Wash., was team high man as the university ROTC rifle squad banged out its 18th win in 19 matches fired this year. The University of Wyoming was the latest victim of the MSU sharpshooters when it lost this week to the Grizzlies, 1853 to 1836. Possible score for each team was 2,000.

Cecil Gilmore, Lewistown, tied Graham in total points in the Wyoming match with 373 out of a possible 400, but Graham was given top spot by virtue of his higher score in the standing position.

Other members of the squad and their scores against Wyoming are: Bill Rife, Miles City, 371; Buddy Campbell, Superior, 371; and Cap Rowley, Ekalaka, 365.

The matches, which are under the direction of M/Sgt. Milton C. Hanson, are fired on the ROTC range here. Scores are certified and telegraphed to opponents throughout the country who in turn forward their scores to Sergeant Hansen.

The high scoring Montana squad will fire matches this and next week with Cornell, UCLA, San Jose State, University of California, and St. Bonaventure, Hansen said.

CALIFORNIA GOLF TOURNEY TO BE PLAYED AT NIGHT

There may come a day when the pros will be playing golf around the clock.

A small power house on wheels will be used Tuesday night at Long Beach, Calif., for a $1,000 "Stars Under the Stars" tournament. The portable powerhouse can generate 300,000 candlepower. Golfers who have played under the lights from this power plant say it's almost the same as playing by daylight.

Government Winds Up Perjury Case

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—(U)—The government wound up its case against former government economist William Remington today with a surprise witness from the accused man's college days.

The surprise witness was Robb Kelley, an Upper Darby, Penn., insurance man who attended Dartmouth college with Remington.

He testified he once asked his fellow student why he was a Communist party member, and that Remington replied, it was because his father was a stooge of the capitalists and that he hoped to do something to remedy the conditions that existed at the time.

Earlier, government witness Elizabeth Bentley admitted under cross-questioning that the foreman of the federal grand jury which charged Remington with perjury has helped her write a book.

In the book, she accuses Remington of being a Communist.

Accounting Institute Elects Professor

Dr. Donald J. Emblen, professor of business administration, in charge of the accounting division, has been elected a member of the American Institute of Accountants, national professional society of certified public accountants.

Before joining the University faculty in September, 1945, Dr. Emblen taught at St. Lawrence university, Union college, and Rochester Business institute, and had been accountant for Eastman Kodak and Remington-Rand.

Dr. Emblen received his B.A. from Ohio university in 1932, his M.B.A. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1935, and his Ph.D. Columbia university in 1940. He holds a C.P.A. certificate from the State of Montana and is a member of the Montana Society of Certified Public Accountants.

DEFER G.I. HOUSE PAYMENTS, SAYS LOCAL HOUSE MEMBER

Helena, Jan. 10.—(U)—Republican representative from Missoula county Winfield Page says he'll introduce a memorial tomorrow into the Montana legislature which will ask Congress to pass a bill seeking to defer payments on homes of young men going into the armed services.

The Missoula representative said the induction of many of our young men who have contracted for the purchase of homes, has the effect of disrupting their economic status. It also, he adds, imposes a hardship on their families.

Page wants the U. S. government to pay all interest while the home owners are in the armed forces. Page says when they come back after their discharge they would resume the payments.

MENTAL HYGIENE SOCIETY TO HEAR DR. SAPPENFIELD

Dr. Bert Sappenfield, associate professor of psychology, will speak on psycho-sexual developments at the Mental Hygiene society meeting tonight. The meeting will be from 7 to 10 in the Mental Hygiene clinic. Dr. Sappenfield's talk will be followed by a discussion and coffee hour.

New Laundromats To Be Installed In Residence Halls

Four new Westinghouse laundromats will be installed in Corbin hall, North hall, and Jumbo in the near future, Mrs. Edith Swearingen, manager of residence halls, said.

The laundromats were purchased through the state agent by bids and will be installed when the services of an electrician, now working on the remodeling of South hall kitchen, are obtained.

The machines will operate by a coin meter, requiring a quarter for each complete washing operation. The money collected from the machines will be used to pay for them and to help keep each machine in working condition, Mrs. Swearingen said.

Corbin hall and North hall will each have one machine, and Jumbo two. The students of South hall purchased a washing machine of their own and maintain its services themselves.

Last year automatic washing machines were operated under contract by several students. This system proved unsatisfactory and so in April bids were opened with the state agent.

The machines were obtained during Christmas vacation and will soon be installed to handle the students washing problems.

PARKING PLAN STARTS WITH FEW VIOLATIONS

Not one of the 490 campus automobiles registered with the maintenance department was tagged for improper parking yesterday as MSU's new parking plan went into effect, Tom Swearingen, maintenance engineer, reported.

Fifteen violations, however, were reported for non-registered cars. Most of the offenses, Swearingen said, were in the Van Buren street no-parking area near the law school.

Valentine Vetoes Wage, Price Plan

Washington, Jan. 10.—(U)—A proposal that wages and prices be frozen for 30 days was overruled today by Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine.

The idea of a temporary freeze was advanced by Michael Disalle, price administrator in the nation's emergency economic setup. Valentine told a news conference late today that he rejected the plan because his agency doesn't have the staff to enforce it, and for other "policy reasons."

Asked when the agency expects to have a sufficient staff to enforce compulsory ceilings, Valentine said, "I just don't know."

Disalle sat glumly by while Valentine killed the plan, and told reporters the nation has no present plans for across-the-board ceilings.

Nite Club Dance To Have Variety Of Musical Types

Reservations must be made in advance for the Nite Club dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 in the Gold room of the Student Union. The annual music school dance will feature a variety of musical types from Fred Waring to light opera according to Glen Patton, Victor.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Union during the remainder of the week.

"It is best to make reservations in groups if possible, since the seating will be cabaret style," Patton said.

Changing from their past themes of gold rush days and plantation days, this year's dance will feature talent from the music school in a variety of musical numbers.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 10...THE PANDA

"Let's get down to bear facts!"

The sudden rash of quick-trick cigarette tests may have caused panda-monium on the campus — but our scholarly friend was unperturbed. He pondered the facts of the case and decided that one-puff or one-sniff tests . . . single inhale and exhale comparisons are hardly conclusive. Proof of cigarette mildness doesn't come that fast!

And that's exactly why we suggest . . .

The sensible test — the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack after pack, day after day basis. No snap judgments needed. After you've enjoyed Camels — and only Camels — for 30 days in your "T-Zone"

(T for Throat, T for Taste), we believe you'll know why . . .
